Candidates Officially Named in Saskatchewan and Ontario for Provincial General Elections; Ontario Premier Has Five Opponents in Constituency; Ontario Liberal Leader in Straight Contest Against Conservative

Nominations for two provincial general elections—Saskatchewan and Ontario—were reported in Canadian Press dispatches to The Times to-day. The provinces will vote on the same day, June 19.

Official nomination proceedings finished in Ontario at the same time they started in the mid-prairie province. Ontario nominated from 1 to 2 m. E.S.T. (10 to 11 a.m. Victoria time).

Nominations were filed in Saskatchewan from 12 to 2 p.m. M.S.T. (1 a.m. to noon Victoria time). Ninety seats will be at stake in the Ontario election and fifty-five in Saskatchewan.

Ontario contests—Toronto, June 12.—Premier George Henry and Mitchell F. Hepburn, liberal leader, were nominated in West York and East Elgin, respectively. This afternoon at more than 40 candidates officially entered the Ontario general election battle. In his own riding Premier Henry faced five opponents—A. Liberal, co-operative Commonwealth candidate, Independent, Socialist and Communist.

Mitchell F. Hepburn, however, has a straight fight with the former member for Elgin, Dr. H. J. Davis, conservative. Two hundred and twenty-four electors signed the nomination papers for the Liberal leader.

ASKATCHEWAN CONTESTS—Regina, June 12.—Nominations for a provincial general election in Saskatchewan resulted in the appearance of a total of 171 candidates of 13 political parties in the arena. To test the fifty-five seats in the legislature on polling day, one week on to-day.

Changes include withdrawal of A. Batchelor, an Independent Conservative. (Turn to Page 2, Col. 3)

Passengers and Mails Taken Off S.S. President Jackson Here and Sent to Seattle; Ship May Load Here for Orient; Lumber Ship Also Held at Victoria

Because of the longshoremen's strike, which is tying up the port of Seattle, the liner President Jackson will remain at Victoria indefinitely. It was announced this morning, following her arrival at the Rithet pier at 8 o'clock from the Orient. She is scheduled to sail on her return to China and Japan June 23.

Seattle cargo, amounting to 2,400 tons, remained aboard the ship, and 9 tons of local freight had been discharged this morning. Just what it happened to the Seattle consignments was not announced to-day. It is possible the ship will be loaded in Canadian freight for her return to the Orient, and will sail from this port to Yokohama ten days.

All passengers were taken off the President Jackson to-day. Those of a travelers who did not take the trip to Seattle this morning went out. (Turn to Page 2, Col. 3)

Cattle Suffer In U.S. Drought Area

Victims of the record drought in the Midwest section of the United States, emaciated cattle have been jamming stockyards in leading livestock centres, rushed there by their owners in the hope of saving them with feed provided with federal funds. Above is shown part of a finished herd being fed in the Milwaukee yards. In the centre is a milk cow, barely able to stand, bones protruding, sides sunken, with other cattle, in almost as bad condition, around her.

Australians Win First Test Match By Deadly Bowling

Last Five English Wickets Fall for 31 runs and Side Is All Out for 141 With Not Much Time Left; Australia Declared in Second Innings With 273 for Eight and Win by 238 Runs

Canadian Press
Nottingham, Eng., June 12.—Australia won the first of the season's five test cricket matches with England by 238 runs. The Aussie bowlers proved too tough on a crumbling wicket for the Englishmen, who made a desperate stand in an effort to gain a draw.

The last five English wickets were collared for only thirty-one runs. The scores: Australia, 374 and 273 for eight wickets, declared; England, 268 and 141.

The Australians declared just before lunch, giving England the task of getting 380 runs for a win in less than six hours. It was too much.

Surprising the critics, the Australian attack proved too much for the English batters. The Aussie fielding also was better than ever. E. A. Chipperfield, the "baby" of the team, proving exceptionally brilliant in the slips.

Chipperfield shared the honors in the disastrous dismissal of the Englishmen in their second innings with W. J. O'Reilly, six-foot medium-pace spin bowler who leads the Australian attack.

O'Reilly's offerings were deadly on the badly-worn pitch. He captured seven wickets, Clarry Grimmett getting the other three.

The win gives Australia a fine send-off in their quest of the mythical "Ashes," captured in England in 1930 and lost to the English tourists in Australia in 1932-33. (Turn to Page 2, Col. 1)

Commons Inquiry Committee Analyzes Figures of T. Eaton Co. Ltd.

Canadian Press
Ottawa, June 12.—An illustration of the power of mass buying was given to-day to the parliamentary committee investigating that business practice, P. M. Johnson, one of the committee's investigating auditors, said the T. Eaton Company Limited pooled its purchases of Madras muslin curtains and forced down the fixed price in Scotland.

Between October and December 1933, Eaton placed an order for 232,000 yards of Madras muslin, later advertising they were able to offer it at comparatively low prices through their ability to pool purchases for their Toronto, Montreal and Winnipeg stores.

When Eaton buyers first approached the Scottish textile manufacturers they were told the fixed price was 8 1/2 cents a yard, the auditor said.

The large order was placed before the eyes of the weavers, who accepted at 7 cents a yard. The laid-down price in Toronto was 10 1/2, and the sale price was 16 cents, a mark-up of 50 per cent.

"Eaton broke a Scottish combine," that was all, "interjected J. L. Halsey, Liberal, House of Commons."

Chasman H. Stevens denied there had been a combine among Scottish weavers and fortified this opinion with a letter from a firm of Scottish weavers.

"But they fixed the price and Eaton broke it," said E. J. Young, Liberal, Weyburn, Sask.

YEAR'S SALES
For the fiscal year ended January 31, 1934, sales in the Toronto store totaled $34,711,594 and the cost of sales, $23,422,964. This left a gross profit of $11,288,630 or 46.2 per cent on the basis of sales.

Workroom wages were deducted and other expenses, leaving a net gross profit on the company's records of $10,059,156.

Departmental expenses totaled $13,505,601, leaving a net departmental loss of $466,445. (Turn to Page 2, Col. 4)

QUINTUPLETS ARE GAINING

Corbett, Ont., June 12.—The Dionne quintuplets, fifteen days old this morning, showed a gain of 2 1/2 ounces over their total weight of yesterday, and all were in improved condition, Dr. A. R. Dufour reported. The increase offset most of the loss of 3 1/2 ounces from Sunday to Monday.

Cecile dropped 1/2 ounce, but all the rest gained to-day. Their total was 10 pounds 10 1/2 ounces, compared with 10 pounds 8 1/2 ounces yesterday.

Their weights in ounces:

U.S. Congress to Be Asked to Increase NRA's Authority as Steel Stoppage Looms

Associated Press
Washington, June 12.—Abandonment of the Wagner labor board bill until next session, and enactment instead of temporary power for the administration to handle such labor disputes as the projected steel strike, was indicated more strongly at the Capitol to-day.

Hugh S. Johnson, Senator Robert Wagner, Democrat, New York, and Labor Department experts were working on the new stopgap legislation. While details were withheld, it appeared to embrace legislative instead of the present executive authority for the NRA labor board to conciliate in the steel and other cases. British Capitalists Are Watching Canada As Investment Field

High Rate of British Income Tax Forces Investors to Seek Other Outlets in Empire, Says Lord Southborough, Leader of Eminent Financial Group Visiting Victoria

British investors, influenced by the high rate of the British income tax, are seeking investments abroad, and Canada, in line with other dominions of the British Commonwealth, is being watched as a favorable field for the investment of British capital.

This is the impression gained in an interview with Lord Southborough, director of the British Pacific Trust Ltd., and an outstanding financial figure of London, who paid a trip to Victoria yesterday from Vancouver.

The party consisted of Lord Southborough, Lord Givens, son of Lord Trevelyan, Lord Guinness, son of Lord Moyne and a well-known novelist; W. S. Eyre, member of Grace Bros. and Co. bankers, and A. J. T. Taylor, former Victorian, now resident in the British metropolis.

They were entertained at dinner last night at "Spencerwood," the country home of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Spencer at Patricia Bay.

MONEY AVAILABLE
There is a great deal of money available in Great Britain for safe and sound investment, said Lord Southborough, who is of the opinion that some sort of trust organization should be formed in London with representatives in various parts of the Empire to investigate opportunities for investment.

These investors were prepared to invest in sound propositions which might be put forward by the Dominion of British capital. (Turn to Page 2, Col. 6)

Hon. G. M. Weir Announces Investigating Body on School Cost Inquiry With Major H. B. King, Vancouver Expert, as Technical Adviser

STATE'S DUTY UNDER REVIEW

Forms One Side of Rebuilding for Provincial Taxation Structure; Ministers of Education and Finance to Act as Commissioners

The most comprehensive survey of British Columbia's educational system in the history of the province, as a foundation for what are expected to be far-reaching changes in the legislative set-up of the system next year will be launched July 1, Hon. G. M. Weir, Minister of Education, declared this morning coincident with an announcement that Major H. B. King, principal of Kit-silano High School, will act as technical adviser for the investigation.

Covering the whole phase of educational finances, the survey is designed as the groundwork for a reconstruction of the entire system, by determining the incidence of the burden of education costs, sources of the revenue which pays for training the young and a score of questions incidental to these things.

For years there has been criticizing, complaining and argument about the cost of education, the heavy tax burden on land from school budgets and how much of the task of teaching children the state should assume.

"What we want to get," said Mr. Weir, "is the most authoritative document possible on which we can work to iron out the inequalities in the system." Before our report is complete it will be submitted to the finest experts on the continent for their opinions and it will embrace a study of educational systems in the advanced countries of the world.

LARGE INQUIRY BODY

An investigating body will be set up next month and Major King, who was granted leave of absence for six months by the Vancouver School Board, will start on July 1.

As a large committee for the preparing of confidential information in connection with the survey, representatives of organizations interested in educational work, together with individuals, will be submitted to the directorship of Harry Charlesworth, secretary of the B.C. Teachers' Federation, as general chairman. This group will include such bodies as the Teachers' Federation, the B.C. School Trustees' Association, the Union of B.C. Municipalities, parent-teacher organizations, labor groups, agriculturists, Canadian Manufacturers' Association, and similar organizations to the number of twenty or thirty.

FROM EVERY ANGLE
"The duty of this committee will be to gather information from every source and quarter and to report to-day."

WICKET-WEARING BADLY

Play resumed to-day on a badly-wearing wicket, the Aussies having an overnight total of 159 for three. Twelve thousand were in the stands before the start.

W. A. Brown and Stanley McCabe were batting with 37 and 74, respectively, when play resumed. The fourth wicket fell at 181, when McCabe was caught at 88 by Hammond off Farnes's fast bowling. Darling was dismissed for 14, young Chipperfield was good for only four runs, in contrast to his first-innings tally of 99, and Brown was dismissed for 73, seven wickets being down for 244 runs. O'Reilly ran up 15 before losing his wicket, the eighth for 267, and with Oldfield and Grimmett batting, the Aussies declared for 273.

The weather was dull and the pitch badly worn for the Australian batsmen. McCabe nevertheless hit out valiantly and his innings included a six and fifteen fours.

Leonard Darling, who succeeded him, started to slash all offerings but was out in jig time, being caught at first slip by Hammond off Farnes.

ative for Kelvington and substitution of R. E. Forbes for A. F. Neaby were made up by the party.

With two seats for each of the three large cities, Regina, Saskatoon and Moose Jaw, there are fifty-two constituencies.

Leaders of the 25,000 striking longshoremen, seamen and allied workers declared the fighting spirit of the movement and it is inevitable efforts to split their ranks. The longshoremen's strike committee here called for a general strike of all trade unions and Joseph P. Ryan, president of the International Longshoremen's Association, said the walkout might spread to Atlantic ports.

Major Angelo J. Cross of San Francisco was in Regina last week. He was in the city to see some indication of the forty-eight hours he would summon employers and strike leaders for a conference.

"From what I can learn from the leaders," Mayor Rossi said, "it appears that both sides are practically in agreement and it is inexplicable they cannot come together."

NEW PEACE PLAN

Officials of the San Francisco Waterfront Employers' Union, representing shipping interests, admitted the department had been received from the Pacific Northwest, but declined to discuss its nature.

Reports from Portland said those who would not be announced until an agreement was actually reached. They expressed belief advance statements played a part in the failure of the former proposal.

Violence again flared at San Pedro yesterday as 600 persons, who had gathered to protest "police brutality," were dispersed by officers who swung their clubs and used tear gas.

Portland authorities sought eighteen or twenty men who raised the riot and were ordered to be hauled off to jail.

down into the root of things," the minister explained.

He said the structure is a smaller one of about five, and will be known as the revision group, to study, analyze, digest and interpret the evidence secured by the larger committee.

As the technical adviser, highly trained in school administration and financing, who will be able to correlate the information, and to study the subject in other countries, where they may have a bearing on the British Columbia situation.

REALTY DIVISION

Mr. King is exceptionally well equipped for the position. Dr. Well pointed out. Born in Ontario, he had his early education there, and his academic career was marked by unusual distinction. On passing the Ontario honor matriculation examination he won two scholarships in classics and general proficiency. He has since held positions of trust and honor, including the degree of B.A. from Queen's University, and M.A. from U.B.C., and has done several years' work for the University of Washington, with special work in educational administration and statistical methods. He has wide teaching experience, and has been principal in Vancouver since 1929.

"We are fortunate in not being obliged to go abroad to obtain the services of a technician in matters of educational administration," said Dr. Weir.

At the head of the whole survey will be Dr. Weir, and Hon. John Hart, Minister of Finance, as the two commissioners. They will be responsible for the survey in its final analysis, and will have a lot to say in drafting the legislation arising from it, which is expected to be ready, in part, at least, for the next session of the House. Mr. Hart's assistance will be given because of his own move to revise the general structure of the province.

In one sense the investigation will be a follow-up for the Putnam-Weir survey of 1929, which is regarded as one of the most authentic documents on B.C. education at the present time. J. H. Putnam, who is superintendent of city schools in Ottawa, will be one of the experts asked to study the draft report.

Preliminary organization work will be done early next month, when various interested bodies will be invited to name representatives. On the revision committee Dr. Weir hopes to get such men as Herbert Anscombe, M.P.P. for Victoria, who is well acquainted with finances, and Rev. Robert Connell, Opposition Leader, who is a keen student of educational matters.

TO TELL STORY

At the opening of this forenoon's sitting of the committee, Maj. A. E. Nash, head of the committee's investigating auditors, said officials of the T. Eaton Company Limited would prefer to go to the committee to offer story of the $1,337,500 in salaries and bonus paid their ranking forty executives last year. Eaton's had not refused to give the breakdown and the individual figures, the auditor said.

"If they refuse later, I will report it," said Major Nash.

The committee continued its review of the Eaton Company, turning from its financial set-up to business practices. Major Nash said the mark-ups to be presented were selected as to be indicative of the organization as a whole.

In a final analysis of the Toronto stores' sales for the year ended with January last, Auditor W. L. Gordon, Toronto accountant, said there was a net departmental loss on these sales according to the company's records of $496,415.

Mr. Gordon presented a statement showing the departmental operating expenses of the Toronto stores for the year ended January 11, 1934.

The first item was an overhead charge of $349,000, added to invoices, running from 1 1/2 to 2 per cent to cover head office purposes.

Traveling expenses totaling $112,536 were made up partly by the traveling allowance department managers and partly by a percentage added to all foreign invoices.

Officials of U.S. Pacific Ports Admit Increasing Anxiety As Peace Moves Bring No Settlement

San Francisco, June 12.—Renewed threats of a "fight to the finish" added to the anxiety of United States Pacific Coast's prolonged maritime workers' strike to-day while officials of seaport cities admitted increasing concern over the situation.

"If they refuse later, I will report it," said Major Nash.

The committee continued its review of the Eaton Company, turning from its financial set-up to business practices. Major Nash said the mark-ups to be presented were selected as to be indicative of the organization as a whole.

In a final analysis of the Toronto stores' sales for the year ended with January last, Auditor W. L. Gordon, Toronto accountant, said there was a net departmental loss on these sales according to the company's records of $496,415.

Mr. Gordon presented a statement showing the departmental operating expenses of the Toronto stores for the year ended January 11, 1934.

years to bring them returns on their investment.

But there is a patriotic motive behind it, too. There was a marked trend in London, he said, towards a fixed policy of Empire investments and the public was responding to this policy more. The difficulty at this time was to find fields and opportunities for investment, and careful study was necessary with a view to prudent investment of these funds.

IMPRESSED WITH B.C.

In the course of his observations on British investment in the west, Lord Southborough said he was greatly impressed by the wonderful resources of British Columbia.

Lord Southborough is seventy-four years old. He practiced law in 1892, when he was admitted as a solicitor to the British bar. He was on the coast here in 1891 when he came over on the staff of Lord Stanley, then Governor-General of Canada.

He has been identified with several important missions to Canada, Newfoundland and the United States, and founded a hospital and medical service for Canadian and Newfoundland fishermen. He was a British delegate to the International Railway Congress in London in 1895 and in Paris in 1900. He was member of the royal commission on London traffic as well as the royal commission on shipping rings and electoral reform.

FIGURES STUDIED

The committee spent some time analyzing the figure of $10,505,601, the total for operating expenses, which turned a net gross profit into a net departmental loss. It included the following: Interest, $258,569; rent and space charges, $1,596,549; sales wages, $2,200,486; office wages, $1,150,315; advertising, $1,314,113; delivery expenses, $971,444, and general expenses, $1,000,000.

SALARIES AND BONUSES

At yesterday's sitting, the committee was told by Auditor W. L. Gordon that the forty ranking executives, including officers and directors, of the T. Eaton Company Limited received salaries and bonuses totaling $1,337,500 last year, an average of $33,900. The average in 1929, peak year for the retail and mail order house, was $54,800.

All day yesterday the committee heard evidence of the growth and expansion of the Eaton organization, which started in 1899 when Timothy Eaton opened a small store at the southwest corner of Yonge and Queen Streets in Toronto and now extends to the Rocky Mountains.

Chairman H. H. Stevens announced the committee would investigate salaries and bonuses paid Eaton executives, the figures to remain private.

REALTY COMPANY

The estate figured in the evidence yesterday when it was shown it had profited to the extent of $12,000,000 in 1929 when one of the Eaton subsidiaries, the T. Eaton Realty Company Limited, it holds the bulk of the Eaton retail properties in Toronto, Winnipeg, Montreal, Hamilton, Saskatoon, Regina and Calgary.

When it was formed, the assets first were sold to the estate, then to the new company. In the process, the assets were appreciated $16,000,000 and the estate came out with $12,000,000 in stock of the realty company, on which no dividends have been paid since.

GROWTH INDICATED

Some idea of the vast growth of the Eaton empire may be judged from the following figures: Sales, $22,428,000 in 1906, $225,053,000 in 1929 and $139,500,000 in 1933; payroll, $24,945,000 in 1929 with $5,736 employees; surplus account, $1,792,000 in 1929 and $7,108,000 in 1933; assets, $885,000 in 1929, $1,017,745,000 in 1931 and $109,038,000 in 1933.

Between 1929 and 1931, net profits rose from $5,196,000 to a peak of $8,061,000 and slumped to $659,000. The net loss in 1932 was $2,454,000 and in 1933, $2,075,000. The net profit for the year ending last January was $678,000.

The figures for each year were before provision was made for depreciation of inventory.

INCREASE IN VALUE

The greatest development came between 1927 and 1931, when lands, buildings and equipment rose in value from $24,861,000 to $68,679,000. In all its growth, there has been less than $13,000,000 in outside capital taken in, the company paying its own way as it grew. The share capital has remained $1,000,000 since before 1911.

Commenting on the general results of the organization, the committee auditor said: "It will be seen that the Toronto mail order, the Winnipeg store, Winnipeg mail order division, Winnipeg factory and Manchester city department (a small subsidiary) are the only units which have shown a profit in every year (from 1925 to 1934)."

"The Toronto stores have shown losses for the last three years; the Toronto factory, losses for the last four years; operations of the Ontario groceries have always resulted in a loss."

His statement showed operating profits only in one year since 1929.

RETIREMENT FUND

The auditor corrected one of his earlier statements. He said there was a retirement and benefit fund for senior employees of the Eaton firm, but none for general employees. The plan was optional, 321 being under it at present and the fund, started in 1924, standing at $5,800,000.

THE ISSUE IN SASKATCHEWAN

MR. J. G. GARDINER, FORMER PREMIER of Saskatchewan and still provincial leader of the Liberal party which expects to win the general elections next Tuesday, has told the electors of his province that if he is returned to power the influence of his government will be exercised to bring about the adoption of policies aimed at wider and freer marketing through the removal of barriers to international trading, thus establishing outlets for surplus wheat and other products.

As The Winnipeg Free Press quite properly contends, this is a legitimate appeal to the electors of Saskatchewan; and it is one that can be made only by the Liberal party. Premier Anderson, his colleagues and his following, have been, and still are, associated with the present Dominion government's destructive policies—and their victory in Saskatchewan would be interpreted rightly as a declaration of approval of these policies. Our Winnipeg contemporary further observes:

"The present contest in Saskatchewan has confirmed the revelation which was made in the Dominion election of 1930 that the political 'Farmer' party of Saskatchewan, so far as its leaders can speak for it, sympathizes with the tariff policies of the Conservative party and is prepared to co-operate with it to prevent the application of Liberal policies. This has been strikingly illustrated in the present election in Saskatchewan by the circulation of literature, compiled by the Farmer-Labor group and sent out from the Dairy Pool building in Saskatoon. The burden of the document is identical with the tariff declaration which was made to the electors of Saskatchewan in the Dominion election of 1930 by M. N. Campbell, now of the tariff board: a charge that the Liberal party is just as high tariff as the Conservative; and that this is established by a reference to the trade statistics covering the years from 1917 to 1930. The figures, as set out in the document, are correct enough; but they are manipulated to give quite erroneous impressions, revealing a deliberate intention to deceive. The ad valorem average rate of all imports for the fourteen years is shown; and an attempt is made to support the claim by showing that the rate was higher in the Liberal than in the Conservative period. To strengthen his case, the compiler puts the fiscal years 1921 and 1922 in the Liberal column, whereas they belong to the Conservative period. On the figures quoted, given their proper grouping, the average rate in the last year of the period in which a tariff was made under Conservative auspices operated was 16.2 per cent; this rose to 16.7 per cent in the following year, and then fell to lower levels; in 1930 it was 15.9 per cent."

The Saskatoon C.C.F. special pleader for the Conservative tariff policy, The Free Press emphasizes, carries his misrepresentations only up to the year 1930. No one who looks at the comparative tariff rates of 1930 and to-day on a wide range of necessities of life could honestly say that there is no difference between the tariff policies of the two parties. We quote our contemporary again: "Consider the tariff increase in the general tariff on gasoline from one cent to two and a half cents a gallon; barbed wire from two cents to ten per cent; binders and mowers from six per cent to twenty-five per cent; harrows from seven and a half per cent to twenty-five per cent; cream separators from five per cent to twenty-five per cent; plows from ten per cent to twenty-five per cent. Then, in the case of clothing, which is a matter of some importance on these western plains, notice might be taken of the increase on woollens, which have been drawn unavailingly to the attention of the Tariff Board by the British woolen interests:

1930 Liberal Tariff	Present Tariff
Yarns.....20%	15% +15c lb.
Worsts.....12½%	10% +10c lb.
Felt.....15%	15% +10c lb.
Blankets.....22½%	22½% +20c lb.
Woven fabrics not exceeding 6 ozs. per square yd.....10%	20% +12½c lb.
Woven fabrics not exceeding 5 ozs. per square yd.....22½%	27½% +25c lb.
Wearing apparel.....27½%	30% +25c lb.
Knitted garments.....20%	25%
Woolen fabrics not exceeding 6 ozs. per square yd.....20%	25%
Socks and stockings.....25%	30% +81 doz. pairs
Gloves.....22½%	25%
Mitts.....15%	25%

These are the authorized figures which constitute a complete refutation of the statement that the levels of taxation under a Liberal tariff are as high as under a Conservative tariff. The implication suggested by the Saskatoon propagandist is that the Farmer-Labor party has gone over to high protection and, presumably, is ready to join hands with the Conservatives. When the ballots have been counted next Tuesday, it will be surprising if the traditionally Liberal province of Saskatchewan has endorsed its first Conservative government's conduct of affairs.

BRITISH COLUMBIA'S GLACIER PARK

OF ALL CANADA'S GREAT MOUNTAIN ranges, few carry a greater appeal to the lover of Nature than the Selkirk in British Columbia, which lie within the great northern bend of the Columbia River. Ages older than the Rockies, the Selkirks stand pre-eminent in the wonderful luxuriance of their dark green forests, and in the extent and mass of ice which lies upon their summits throughout the year. Contrasted with the sombre green of the forested slopes and valleys are the uplands with their gardens of wild flowers blooming in riotous profusion.

Straddling the summit of the Selkirks is Glacier National Park, containing an area of 521 square miles. It is one of the oldest of Canada's great reservations, and is administered by the National Parks Service of the Department of the Interior. Until the discovery of Rogers Pass and the construction of the Canadian Pacific Railway in 1886 this region was quite unknown and practically inaccessible. Even today, almost fifty years later, Glacier Park is accessible only by rail, since no roads or motor highways span this rugged mountain territory. There are, however, many miles of interesting trails which lead in all directions up the valleys and over the snow-crowned passes.

Outstanding features of Glacier Park are its towering peaks, its great snowfields and glaciers and its famed subterranean caves. There are many peaks in the park whose altitudes exceed 10,000 feet above sea level, of which the best known is Mount Sir Donald (10,818 feet) named after Sir Donald Smith, later Lord Strathcona. Hasler Peak (11,123 feet) is the highest point in Glacier Park, while Mounts Wheeler and Selwyn both rise more than 11,000 feet above sea level.

The Illecillewaet, or Great Glacier, is the most accessible of the large glaciers, and is situated about two miles from the railway station of Glacier. From the crest of the Illecillewaet snow field, which is ten square miles in area, the glacier falls 3,600 feet to the base below. The famed Nakimu Caves are reached by trail up the Cougar Valley, and are believed to have been formed both by seismic disturbances and by the eroding action of the waters of Cougar Creek. Visitors may traverse more than a mile of underground passages which connect the various chambers and grottoes, some of which have ceilings from fifty to one hundred and fifty feet high. Some of these chambers, which bear such characteristic names as the Witches' Ballroom and the Bridal Chamber, have walls gleaming with crystalline lime encrustations in white or pale pink which reflect the carried light in a glittering display.

WHAT CAN BE DONE ABOUT IT?

"Because the Disarmament Conference has split into committees designed to conceal the fact that after two years and a quarter's work not a single gun, tank, airplane or warship has been scrapped, another outburst of diplomatic activity has swept over Europe. Dictators, diplomats, and representatives of a dozen foreign offices are now busy seeing what can be done about it."—Mr. A. C. Cummings, in a dispatch from London to-day.

THE TROUBLE WITH THE DELEGATES

TO the Disarmament Conference was that they did not discuss disarmament. Their main deliberations were centred on armament. When the conference opened in February, 1932, the stand taken by them, at least, as far as one was able to judge, was that war was inevitable. This naturally foredoomed the defeat of the gathering.

Mr. Cummings tells us that Hitler, Germany's Fascist Chancellor, and Mussolini, Italy's Fascist Dictator, are trying to arrange a meeting this week to discuss, first, Germany's possible return to the League of Nations; next, all pressing questions including Nazi propaganda that disturbs Central Europe, and lastly, pacts which France and Soviet Russia contemplate for mutual security. M. Barthou, French Foreign Minister, proposes to visit Rome later in the year after he has seen Premier MacDonald in London, and the foreign ministers of Little Entente powers, Czechoslovakia, Yugoslavia and Roumania will meet in Bucharest to settle the lines of a new policy necessitated in eastern Europe by diplomatic recognition of Moscow and the likelihood that the Soviet will be admitted to League of Nations membership in September.

The tragic part about all this is that there is going on at the present time more rearming, more piling up of armaments, than there was before the Great War broke out in 1914. Italy, for example, is about to build two 35,000-ton battleships, and Britain—quite naturally, because she is in sixth place in the matter of aerial fighting equipment among the nations of the world—is about to add 600 machines to her air force. So is the world drifting.

Ontario's Premier Henry says he will be quite satisfied with ten to twelve of a majority after the ballots have been counted in the provincial general election next Tuesday. But The Hamilton Herald does not propose to let him get away with a statement of this kind without comment. It says: "Modesty is a precious virtue, but, like other virtues, it must have a background. With a background of reason he might well say he would be satisfied if his minority were no more than ten or twelve."

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

IONIES OF OTTAWA
The London News Chronicle

The Dominions are to be urged to co-operate with the British Government in cutting down their exports to this country and reducing that trade within the empire which less than two years ago it was the proclaimed object of the same British Government to increase.

THE COLLAPSE OF COLLECTIVISM
The Winnipeg Free Press

The new Three Power Treaty and other recent incidents indicate that the collective system has been abandoned, and the collective system was the one production of the post-war period which, until quite recently, was regarded as a recompense for the destructiveness of the last war. It was the hope of all well-intentioned people that by having international differences discussed collectively a new world order would be firmly laid on a foundation of peace as the years went on. The League of Nations was the visible expression of this hope. Its intention was to produce a new world comity in which the rivalries and passions of the pre-war era would melt away in the realization by all the nations of the mutual character of their national interests. From such a recognition, and from such a method of dealing with the differences that might arise, and the adjustments that might have to be made, each nation would find itself in a position of security, from which it could go on to develop its national characteristics and make a constructive and beneficial contribution to civilization. With the present return to pre-war group and sectional and invisible diplomacy staring everybody in the face, it is in order to ask if such a return will be any better a guarantor of national security than the collective system embodied in the League. The League has failed, no doubt, but only because the powers deserted its first principles and refused to live up to its requirements.

A THOUGHT

We unto them that decree unrighteous decrees, and that write grievousness which they have prescribed.—Isaiah x. 1.
Oppressive government is more cruel than a tiger.—Confucius.

Loose Ends

We are strong on Christianity in these parts but don't like it in our leaders—the art of the dance flourishes, little known—we fail to appreciate our natural resources, and a true artist is discovered.

By H. R. W.

CHRISTIANS

WE HAVE BEEN witnessing lately in British Columbia an illuminating commentary on our Christian civilization in these parts. Premier Pattullo, deeply moved by the glories of British Columbia on his return here from the east, told the Canadian Club of Vancouver that he had gone out on his balcony at dawn and, looking across the Straits, had murmured: "Fragrant God from whom all blessings flow." Then he asked the president of the club to have the orchestra play the Doxology.

At once the public of British Columbia was intrigued. The Vancouver newspapers published cartoons poking fun at the Premier's conversion. They asked whether he had gone Oxford like Gerry McGeer. For days no one talked about anything else and whatever the Premier said in the body of his speech was quite forgotten in the excitement over the religious fervor in the end of it. Politicians said it was dangerous for a party leader to say things of this sort.

So we have reached a point in the development of our Christian civilization in these parts where it is bad politics and likely to lose you votes if you show any sign of Christianity. It is almost scandalous when a prime minister is discovered with any religious instincts. When any man shows a tendency to tell the truth or to be completely honest in any matter, people say nowadays that he has "gone Oxford" and everybody smirks, as if he had gone crazy. It is humiliating, indeed, for a man to be caught in any show of piety or virtue. Few, however, are humiliated.

EARLY MONDAY

THIS IS WRITTEN early Monday morning, after a restful week-end at our lake, is a bad time for thought. Otherwise I should have liked to say something handsome and exciting about the dance recital of the Russian Ballet School at the Royal Victoria Theatre last Saturday night.

It was simply to view the performance of the little girl next door, who was a snowball for a very few moments, expecting to be bored to tears, for you know what these amateur shows are usually like. Instead, it turned out to be one of the most competent and gorgeous performances we have ever seen here.

Such an exhibition of the dance shows you that, under the hard outer shell of our civilization, some of the better instincts still remain. A few courageous souls are still developing the creative faculties even in this machine age. And what a teacher like Mrs. Wilson can do with ordinary children, how little tots of four, five and six can acquire the idea of rhythm and motion, is quite amazing. We have here a hundred girls who, for their age and training period, would compare favorably with the products of dancing schools anywhere, an extraordinary display of talent, but few of us appreciate it. To see these exquisite little creatures dance like fairies in a child's dream makes you realize how thoroughly gross and mundane you are.

VITAL STATISTICS

ANOTHER FACT which I am able to proclaim with certainty now is that the best-looking girls and women in Canada are raised right here in Victoria and, like everything here, are never appreciated. The appearance of the kiddies in the dance recital, as beautiful as spring flowers, only confirms the general truth. You know, in the east they assert with their usual complacency that Canada's loveliest women come from Ottawa, which may explain why members of Parliament are invariably eager to get re-elected even though life in the House of Commons is full of misery and hardship unappreciated by the electors.

Having observed the phenomena of Ottawa, purely with the impersonal attitude of a paid reporter, I am able to say now that they don't begin to compare with our phenomena of the same sort here. Ottawa is a much larger city than this, but in the course of one block here you will see six lovely women for every one you will see on the whole length of Sparks Street. Ottawa's reputation for wealth in this matter is due, no doubt, to the distressing poverty of other eastern cities. The trouble with them down there, as Premier Pattullo has so frequently pointed out, is that they really don't know anything about the natural resources of the west.

On the other hand, my observations confirm the fact that the tragedy of beautiful womanhood in these parts is the almost universal ugliness of manhood. There are hardly any good-looking men to go with the good-looking women. The handsome men come from the east. Still, the stark ugliness of the male here only serves to throw into more striking relief the luminosity of the female. As the Prime Minister would say, here we have a natural beauty with a perfect setting.

ARTIST

WHILE I am in this weak-minded humor of civic pride, I should like to tell you of a true craftsman whom I have just discovered on Fort Street. He makes ladders. I should think he has made ladders all his life. His entire career has been devoted to the fine old craft of making ladders. He has lived and I dare say he will die making ladders.

I wanted a ladder of a certain peculiar size and shape and I expected to order it in two minutes and go on my way. Instead, the aged ladder maker kept me a full hour. We went about his shop, through an endless litter of wood and tools, discussing the relative virtues of fir and spruce for ladders. We considered stresses and strains. We went into the value of mortise and tenon joints and the art of dovetailing. We planned my ladder as you might plan a cathedral. The old man caressed his wood and his tools as you would caress a woman. I could see that while he must have made thousands of ladders in his time, each new one was another adventure, another trial of his skill, another expression of his creative instinct. Here, indeed, was a ladder maker in the Middle Ages, still surviving on Fort Street a few feet from the electrical street car tracks; creating a humble thing, it is true, but creating more than nine-tenths of the people who pass his door, creating more than most of our statesmen, industrialists and scientists.

And there was a gleam of anticipation in his old eyes, when I finally ordered a ladder of a certain precise size and shape that a factory machine could not build—a gleam of satisfaction and delight which I have seldom seen in the eyes of the great and successful. It is a much better thing and probably a much happier existence, to make good ladders than to make second-rate laws, industries and scientific experiments.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By ALINE MICHAELIS

MEANINGS

Ah, love's a narrow garden-plot
Where crimson roses grow,
Its walls so high they hide the sky
And harvest fields below.
By day, by night, no untold wind
Can ever enter there;
But scents of flowers and songs of birds
Drift down the languid air.
May love's a pair of snowy wings
Whereon the soul may soar
Close up to God, and loveliness
Lifts heights and depths explore.
So high it goes, no hate or fear
Can leave that altitude.
And there it sees, through eyes made clear,
How life is good, all good!

SFA TEST

To the Editor:—Be the Hon. Geo. Pearson's statement made on island savannah, reported in the front page of Saturday's Times, "that one or two mills might have to shut down, sir, let me point out that more than two mills are already down and by the first of August there will be over 1,000 lumber employees idle through government legislation of minimum wage or failure of lumber companies able to operate under same. We have already had the advance information that on August 1 relief will be discontinued. Having been legislated out of work, can the government (under SFA), legislate these men back to work where they belong, as every honest workman hates relief in any form?"
MILL EMPLOYEE.

PARKS

To the Editor:—It is to be hoped the aldermen will have time to read the excellent letter on the above subject in your issue of June 11, signed by "Optimist."

Admitting that work must be found for the unemployed, then we should see to it that what relief will in the permanent improvement of the city to make it more attractive to tourists will be money well spent.

How many lots have already reverted to the city? More than 100. A burden on all taxpayers and if population is not increased, how long can the present rate of reversion be continued? People are tired of "talking" about our wonderful two miles of waterfront along Dallas Road. They want action. The present extension road on Douglas Street has only been finished as far as Niagara and should be put through to Dallas and properly boulevarded and trees planted. The lack of ideas of landscape work and how to do things in the park is well exemplified by the plot of park area opposite Simcoe Street, where one can count twenty-nine ornamental laurel bushes in rows of military formation, when there should have been planted an assortment of trees and shrubs which would have made the landscape varied and pleasing.

Let us hope the Chamber of Commerce or some public body will take up this important matter and see that the money spent on unemployment will be done in such a way that it will be of lasting benefit to the city.

"HOPEFUL"

"TWENTY YEARS AFTER"

To the Editor:—We gladly join the crowd in congratulating The Times on the occasion of its fiftieth anniversary. And I do so to express our best wishes for its future. We seize this opportunity to bring to remembrance another "long, long" occurrence which marks a milestone, to-wit: August, 1914, when the first lot of the militia left our coast for that terrible and protracted war and 250 Gordon Highlanders and 250 68th of Buffs covered with dust and perspiration after a long morning's march to the north of our city, were designated to see these twenty or eighty men of the 5th Regiment off.

That very week the same 500 men were also given a never-to-be-forgotten send-off marching down from the Willows, band and pipes alternately playing, all went on in proper military order till about the intersection of Yates and Cook Streets, when wives, sweethearts, sisters, fathers, brothers, children, gradually surrounded the martial host. Disappearing began to slacken and relatives and friends were seen to "join the ranks" holding for the last time perhaps a loved one by arm or hand! When the Causeway was finally reached the crowd was so tremendous that the 500 were compelled to force their way through in single file, and that Major D. but for his good horsemanship, would have been unseated by his frightened horse!

The parting hour had now come and the idea that strong men allow no tears to swell up in their eyes was given the lie, when tender good-bye words were exchanged and hearts were torn asunder, while Dr. Campbell went about whispering to many of the khaki-clad boys: "Don't worry, we'll look after the wife and bairns!" Then the boat whistle was heard, cheers rent the air, handkerchiefs were waved, the steamer moved on, turned the "corner" and the loved ones had gone; some—for ever!

It is well to note that those 500 men were actually the very first lot of citizen-volunteers and non-professional soldiers to leave Victoria in response to the first call to arms after war had been declared! This fact should not be lost sight of!

And although we often like to linger on those events of "long-long ago," yet should there be uppermost in our mind the longing for the time when, as expressed by the prophets Isaiah and Micah: "They shall beat their swords into plowshares, and their spears into pruninghooks; nation shall not lift up sword against nation, neither shall they learn war any more" when the Lord Jesus Christ, the soon-coming Prince of Peace, shall reign supreme from shore to shore, till moons shall wax and wane no more!"

HIGH SCHOOL AWARDS GIVEN

Successful Students Given Prizes at Annual Ceremony Yesterday

With the auditorium filled to capacity, students outstanding in athletic and academic achievements throughout the scholastic year at Victoria High School were presented with their respective awards at the annual ceremony at Victoria High School yesterday afternoon.

The outstanding award was that of the Leader Cup, won with the unanimous decision of the judges by Miss Norman Cressman, second semester president of Portia Society. EDWARD NEARLY WON GERMANY

Prof. E. S. Farr Tells Gyros of Great Loss Suffered in King's Death

If King Edward VII had kept his health in 1910 and if Germany had been ruled by public opinion rather than by a Hohenzollern military clique, it would have been quite probable that the British sovereign would have won Berlin just before he had won Paris, said Professor E. S. Farr, Victoria College, in touching on Edward's visit of reconciliation to the German capital, during a talk before the Gyro Club yesterday.

The illness, which was to prove fatal fifteen months later, had got its grip on Edward and he had returned to England a sick man after winning over with his famous diplomacy and charm the Berlin municipal council, which Kaiser Wilhelm had refused to visit with him because he considered him "red." The two countries, minus the conciliating influence of Edward, had then abandoned themselves to armament-loving admirals and such like, and the progress to 1914 had been inexorable, said Mr. Farr.

In dealing informally with Edward and Wilhelm under the title of "A Royal Family Affair," Mr. Farr traced the early lives of the two men who were to become monarchs and indicated how the relationship between the uncle and his nephew had, under Queen Victoria's policy of love for her grandson, Willie, and restraint for her son, Edward, led to a mutual dislike between the two men. But King Edward's tact had bridged the gulfs between England and France and England and Russia and had seemed well on the way to bridging the gulfs between England and Germany when illness and death had intervened.

PIONEERS' CABIN EXHIBIT SEEN

The British Columbia Historical Association by arrangement with the Saanich Pioneer Society held a field meeting at the society's cabin at Saanichton on Saturday afternoon.

Sixteen members went from town and joined a large number of Saanich members, the latter having prepared a very pleasant welcome to their cabin.

An interesting hour was spent examining the souvenirs displayed in the cabin and listening to the descriptions given by those in charge of the exhibit which is permanently housed there.

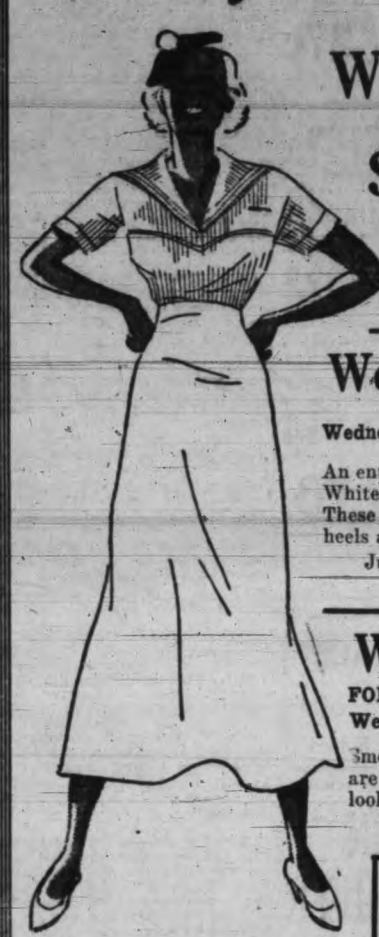

An informal meeting was then held at which Alex McDonald, M.P.P., spoke for his subject, and several short historical notes supplied by the various pioneer families covering the activities of their grandparents and parents in the Saanich districts, north and south. These notes proved most interesting and in some instances very amusing, giving details of the everyday life at that time.

After the meeting, Major F. V. Longstaff, president of the Historical Association, thanked the chairman and the members of the Pioneer Society in the name of the association.

An al fresco tea was then served.

QUADRUPLTS ARE THRIVING

Corn Syrup and Milk Diet for Four Iowa Babies

Sac City, Ia., June 12.—The Wycoff quadruplets are thriving to-day on a diet of corn syrup and milk in makeshift incubators improvised by the attending physician.

Dr. G. H. Swearingen, who delivered the four tiny infants, said the babies are showing marked improvement.

Their ration has been increased to an average of about two teaspoonful of the corn syrup-milk mixture every hour.

Gifts of food and clothing which will enable the father, Larry, to stretch his $16 a week salary to provide care for his children, poured in upon the Sac County highway worker.

Comedian's Wife Asks Big Alimony

Los Angeles, June 12.—Because, she says, "Slim" Summerville carries his romancing from the screen into real life, his wife sought a $3,000 monthly allowance in a separate maintenance action to-day.

The film comedian "visited" other women in Mexican and mountain resorts, Gertrude M. Summerville charged in her action, and he gave cash gifts totaling $2,000 to an unnamed Hollywood woman.

She said the actor, whose real name is George J. Summerville, is capable of earning $100,000 a year and their community property is worth $100,000.

CHINESE WOMAN GIVES BIRTH TO OCTUPLETS

The wife of a boatman of Kwonyamsha, Chungshan, near Macao, Mrs. Tam Sing, gave birth to octuplets recently, according to The Canton Daily Sun.

"The mother and the group of one girl and seven boys are all doing exceedingly well. Mrs. Tam appears quite pleased to have brought forth, according to legendary tale, 'seven stars and a moon.' Superstitious like most village women, she believes that her seven sons will bring her good luck and her daughter's solace and comfort throughout the remainder of her lifetime," according to The Sun.

Y.W.C.A. NOTES

The following meetings will be held this week: Wednesday, 2:30 o'clock, house committee; Thursday, 1:30 o'clock, annex committee; Thursday, 2:30 o'clock, finance committee; Friday, 2:30 o'clock, board of directors.

CLUB BANQUET
A most interesting banquet marked the closing of the winter activities for the girls' clubs of the Y.W.C.A. A delightful programme was enjoyed by the club members, board representatives and guests. Following the welcome of the girls and guests by Miss Barbara Allen, president of the Girls' Club Council, Miss Blackley, general secretary of the Y.W.C.A., introduced the guests. Greetings were extended from the Vancouver Y.W. by Mrs. James Whitcombe, vice-president of the National Council Y.W.C.A. for British Columbia. The guest speaker of the evening, Madam Vivienot, gave a charming description of life in Japan. Several delightful solos were sung by Mrs. Norman Senior, accompanied by Mrs. Beales. During the evening Mrs. Maude Hammond, convener of the girls' work department, voiced the appreciation of the girls in the Y and all that had been done to help make their activities a success. She thanked those who helped with the evening's programme. A toast to the Y was given by Miss Gladys Kirchen, a member of the Versatile Club and was responded to by Mrs. Roy Angus, president of the Y.W.C.A. A resume of the activities of the club teams for the winter months was given by Miss Blackley. A unique feature of the evening was the table decorations, planned by the three clubs, each in turn carrying out the purposes of the club or their name in the decorations. A silver cup which was presented by the board of directors was awarded to the gym club whose table represented the various sports of the season. The Versatile Club carried out the activities of their year, which was very cleverly done and won much favorable comment. The Pirates' Club used ships and bold pirates to carry out their decorations, the pirates going in quest of their treasure, which was represented by the club's creed. This table was very colorful and well done.

Your Baby and Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

The mother's eternal bewilderment is the subject of method. "How can I teach my child to be loving and kind and generous? How can I teach him to obey?" The end and aim of such queries is the hunt for a successful method of teaching, so that learning may be painless, illuminating, and successful.

FUTURE EFFORT

We have discovered a good many things about learning. We know that we learn by experience; we learn by doing; we learn by example. We learn least of all by being told "how" to do or be anything. Yet mothers wear themselves out daily in suggesting, lecturing, reproving.

Even adults, with all their experience, learn little from words. A mother, eager to learn, eager to listen, goes to an informative lecture. How much of the speaker's thoughts and how many of his words does she carry away with her? Usually those which apply to her own particular problems of that immediate moment. She learns little that she can apply in the future.

The child has no anticipation of the future. He cannot be prepared for acts to come, or lines of desirable conduct, or thoughts to think, or emotions to feel by being told about them. He listens, perhaps respectfully, but he does not learn. He learns when the occasion arises, and he acts. His acts, good or bad or indifferent, impress upon him the desirability of repeating or eschewing them in future.

LEARN BY DOING

If we want a generous, kind and loving child, we do not exert him to be all of these things. The words have no meaning for him. Least of all do we tell him he's got to be kind, loving, and generous if he isn't he'll get a good spanking. We may profitably point out that certain acts are kind, certain acts generous, certain emotions loving. He may imitate the acts he sees exemplified in our conduct and enjoy the experience and the satisfying result of them. In such ways he learns.

Practical hints for mother and father are presented in my leaflet, "Discipline for Parents." Send a self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request for this leaflet to the "Your Baby and Mine" department of this newspaper.

Garden Party—A garden party will be held to-morrow from 3 to 7 p.m. under the auspices of the Belmont United Church choir, at the parsonage, 2025 Belmont Avenue. Afternoon tea, ice cream and strawberries will be served. There will be a programme of amusements and a three-piece orchestra will be in attendance.

Woman Wins Long Court Fight

Canadian Press

London, June 12.—In a lone battle carried without resources to the Empire's highest tribunal, Mrs. Jean MacKenzie of Ottawa yesterday won her fight against the Royal Bank of Canada in an action to recover securities pledged with the bank fourteen years ago.

The Judicial Committee of the Privy Council allowed her appeal, taken in forma pauperis—without expense—against a decision of the Supreme Court of Ontario, whose appellate division had upset a verdict of the trial judge in Mrs. MacKenzie's favor.

The Privy Council said the evidence showed there was misrepresentation by the bank that the plaintiff's shares were still bound to the bank, when she sought to regain the securities—100 common and eighty-seven preferred shares of an Ottawa dairy—when they were released by the bank's accepting certain assets from the trust in bankruptcy to satisfy the loan.

WASHINGTON MAN WINS MRS. RUSSELL

Washington, D.C., June 12.—Mrs. Dora Russell's divorce suit against Bertrand Russell, the noted author of London, Eng., the breakup of two world-famous experts on the problem of how to be happy and free though married, was especially interesting to a few folks here.

Mrs. Russell will marry a grey-haired young man who has been working in the NRA.

The young man, who has just left for England on a leave of absence.

JUBILEE HOSPITAL DUES

Dues were received yesterday for the Jubilee Hospital W.A. from the following: Mrs. F. M. Gregory, Mrs. F. M. Gibbs, Mrs. Barber Statkey, Mrs. J. B. Lovell, Mrs. A. C. Sinclair, Mrs. John Gail, Mrs. J. E. Hodges, Mrs. Angus McKeown, Mrs. C. W. Thornton, Mrs. J. L. Potter, Mrs. J. A. Craig, Mrs. W. J. Ratray, Mrs. J. N. Taylor, Miss M. Hodge, Mrs. J. W. Troup, Mrs. J. M. Whitney, Mrs. W. Gillam, Mrs. W. E. Oliver, Miss C. I. Alexander, Miss Gertrude Scott and Mrs. G. S. Ford.

COLWOOD

Members of the Junior W.A. to St. John's Church gathered at the home of their president, Mrs. C. Carnegie, Thursday afternoon and it was decided for the future to designate the group as the Girls' Branch to the W.A. Miss Mott, junior superintendent from Victoria, enrolled the members, presenting them with pins. Mrs. Mills, a former junior superintendent, and Rev. A. N. Acheson-Lyle were present. Definite plans were made for a summer sale of work, to be held by the branch. Mrs. Carnegie served refreshments.

The Women's Auxiliary to St. John's Church will hold their regular monthly meeting on Wednesday afternoon, at 2:30 o'clock, in Colwood Hall.

DONNA of the BIG TOP

by BEULAH POYNTER

"I'll do it! I will be Madeline! It's her deception, not mine. What else can I do? Oh, God! If this is a sin—don't punish me! Let him learn to love me! I love him so I can't send him out of my life. If this is wickedness, then I'm a wicked woman—but—oh please God, give me my chance for love and happiness!"

Half-hysterical, with tears rolling down her cheeks, she tore the letter to shreds, then fainted with exhaustion.

CHAPTER IX

"I wouldn't surprise me if he never saw him nor half of Bill Siddall again," Mrs. Planter said, emphasizing her words by planting a dish of string beans boiled with bacon on the table before her son. Nub Planter, a tall, raw-boned, angular man of forty, had taken Bill's place after the young man's hasty departure. Nub was thoroughly enjoying the three square meals a day that went with the job. Usually he had to "scratch" for one meal.

He grinned slyly, exposing tobacco-stained teeth and a cavity where two molars were missing. "That's suit you proper, old lady, eh? With that young upstart out of the way you'd about do as you please with the old geezer, huh?"

"Taint fittin' for you to talk that way to your ma," retorted his mother, but she smiled like a schoolgirl. "Amos Siddall is right fond of me, if I do say it myself. And sometimes it's better for all concerned for old folks to marry than to be beholden on their kind. That stuck-up circus piece ain't ever goin' to bother with him and if Bill don't show up again I reckon Amos will appreciate what a good friend I've been to him."

"Friend?" I reckon you've been paid and paid plenty of everything you've done. You're too smart a woman not to get everything that's comin' to you. Listen, mom, if you do hitch up with the old man, what are you goin' to do for me?"

Mrs. Planter scowled. Since babyhood she had pampered and spoiled her son, destined from birth to be a ne'er-do-well and all-around rascal. Though she adored him (the only person she ever had loved) she knew him to be untrustworthy. She knew, too, that if the management of the farm were left to Nub those abundant acres would soon be in the hands of receivers and she herself reduced to the poverty she had known before Amos Siddall hired her as housekeeper.

"Well, cross no bridges until we come to 'em," she muttered.

The rural delivery postman, driving a shining new car, appeared at the bend of the road. To a lusty, genial voice he called a greeting to Grandfather Siddall.

"That you, Lem?" the aged man answered. "How are you?"

"Letter for you, Grandpop. Seems you're gettin' a right smart lot of mail these days. How's your granddaughter that's with the circus?"

"Fine, Lem. Just fine."

Lem sprang from the car, sprinted up the tree-shaded path and handed the letter to the old man. "Want I should read it to you, Grandpop?" he asked kindly.

"If you would be so good, Lem."

"It's from Bill. I seen him the day he went away. Asked what his hurry was and he said 'business. Some stepper, Bill.' The postman opened the letter, read the contents to himself and then drew a deep breath. He glanced apprehensively at the placid features of the patient old patriarch. "Grandpop, you gotta brace yourself. This here ain't very good news."

"Bill—Bill's not coming back?"

"No. It's not that. It's about Madeline. She—"

"Madeline! Read it, Lem. Read it!"

Slowly, dwelling on each word, Lem Holden read Bill's letter informing the loveliest face I ever saw but she weighed 400 pounds and couldn't walk a step. She couldn't do anything for her."

Donna laughed. "Her fat was her strength. Maybe she did try to reduce in the beginning, but when I knew her she was always trying to take on more weight. She didn't mind it."

Uncle Wiggily Rolls Along

By HOWARD E. GARIS

Uncle Wiggily was hopping and skipping through the woods. The rabbit gentleman also was tramping his pink nose. He was very happy for he had just done a kind deed. He had carried Baby Bunty piglet back to school and he had her sister skates mended.

Uncle Wiggily was carrying Bunty's skates with him as he hoped and skipped through the woods, twinkling his pink nose.

"Yes," said Uncle Wiggily to himself, "I used to be a good roller skater when I was a boy rabbit. I don't believe I have forgotten how to skate. When I come to a smooth place in the woods I will skate and it will be as easy as do the little orphan rabbit."

Uncle Wiggily felt so happy that he sang a little song.

"There was more to it than just the 'la la' part, but we'll let that go until another time, as this story is about Uncle Wiggily rolling along, not about his singing."

Just as it happened, Uncle Wiggily's song was heard by two of the bad Chaps who also were in the woods. They were the Fox and the Cat. The Cat was traveling along together on the next path where the rabbit gentleman was hopping and skipping. At a place where the bushes were thin, the Bob Cat looked through and saw Uncle Wiggily and whispered to the Fox:

"Now's your chance to catch him!"

"How?" asked the Fox. "If I run out he'll see me and with a head start he can hop to fast he'll get away."

"The thing to do," said the Bob Cat, "is to be very, very, and cunning. 'Is to be very, very, and cunning.' You get close enough to Uncle Wiggily to catch him before he knows who I am."

"Oh, all right," said the Fox, "I'll be a mud puddle just ahead."

"All right," said the Cat, "I'll be a mud puddle, then roll yourself in some dried mud, which will stick to you, and when you look like the worst tramp dog that ever was."

"Well, it sounds like a bit of mean work," sighed the Fox. "But—anything he doesn't like, he'll roll and wallow in the mud puddle until he was all gummed up and sticky. Then he rolled in the dried leaves until his own mother wouldn't have known him."

"How do I look?" the Fox, making believe to be a tramp dog, asked the Bob Cat.

"Terrible!" Uncle Wiggily will never admit just how right in the open now, go right up to him, ask him for a match or what time it is and before he knows you, eat him."

"O.K.," said the Fox, using slang, which you mustn't do.

By this time Uncle Wiggily had reached a smooth part of the woodland path. "I believe I'll put on my skates now and roll along," he said to himself. He sat down, stretched the skates to make them fit his paws, and just as he had them fastened on out of the bushes came the Fox, looking like a tramp dog, covered with mud and leaves.

"Oh, so you don't shout the rabbit, growled the Fox.

Uncle Wiggily jumped to his paws and looked at the Fox. For a moment the rabbit thought it really was a tramp dog. Then all at sudden the wind blew some of the leaves off and Mr. Longears saw it was his enemy, the Fox.

"Oh, so you don't shout the rabbit, he roared away so fast on Bunty's skates that the Fox was left far, far behind. Mr. Longears was a good skater and soon he was safe in his burrow.

"Bunty," cried the Fox, making a face at the Bob Cat. "All my work for nothing! Why didn't you tell me he had roller skates? And if the elephant doesn't kick a rubber ball, why tell me about Uncle Wiggily's June walk."

Metchosin

Metchosin, June 12.—Under the auspices of the St. Mary's Church committee the travel films, "Come to England," produced by the Cunard Line and shown through the courtesy of the Canadian National Railways, were exhibited in the Community Hall by Douglas Plintoff on Friday evening last to a large audience. The proceeds were devoted to the general fund of St. Mary's Church. The usual monthly meeting of the Metchosin branch of the women's auxiliary will be held at the home of Miss H. L. Milne, Meadow Bank, Knappton Road, on Thursday afternoon. This will be the last meeting during the summer months.

THE Poodle Dog Time Hands Sons of Canada First Defeat of Season

THE SPORTS MIRROR

JUST about half the victories the high-riding St. Louis Cardinals have chalked up in the National Baseball League have been dished off the good right arms of those "Dizzy" brothers, Paul and Jerome H. Dean. As one expert puts it: "It is the business, make the most of it." And Manager Frankie Frisch is making the most of it. When the former Dodger Flash took over the reins of the St. Louis entry in July of last year, his biggest problem was the great "I am" guy from the wilds of Oklahoma, Jerome Herman, the original Dizzy.

The self-classed "greatest hurler ever to make the majors" had been a problem to Gabby Street before Frisch took control, and Frankie was aware of the fact that he had his hands full in handling a pitcher who was so temperamental.

Street and Dean always were at swords' points. Gabby knew Dean was a good pitcher, but he hinted several times that the loquacious one spread discussion in the ranks.

"He probably could win about twenty-five games for me, but he'd also ruin my ball club," the former Cards' manager once remarked. "My other players would be mad enough to chew nails and fighting among themselves if they had to listen to that for any length of time. I can win a pennant without him."

The funny part about Dizzy was that, along with his boasting, he was a good pitcher. In 1932 he cried for steady work on the hill, calling National League managers a bunch of weak sisters, and threatening to knock their ears down with fast balls. Given steady work, he proceeded to do just that in winning eighteen games. Last season he again did some heavy heaving of the pellet, chalking up twenty wins, and setting a new strikeout record of seventeen against the Chicago Cubs. It was after this performance that J. H. Dean made the remark: "If you think I'm good, you oughta see my brother, Paul, now with Columbus. He'll be with the Cards some day." And Paul joined the Cards this year.

After looking the youngster over in the south, Manager Frisch was asked for his opinion on the second of the dizzy boys.

"If he can pitch like his brother, the Cards are in," was Frankie's confident reply.

Paul not only is pitching like his brother, but he is pitching better than the original dizzy boy, thereby fulfilling a prediction he made in 1932, when he was the star of the Columbus Red Birds.

It was while riding on a train en route to St. Louis that Paul made his forecast. Someone had brought him a paper that carried a story to the effect that Paul Dean, seventeen-year-old brother of the famous Dizzy Dean, had pitched the Columbus team to a 3 to 2 victory over the New York Giants in an exhibition game.

"Give me another year in baseball," the younger member of the Dean clan nonchalantly remarked, "and they'll be calling that dizzy guy Paul Dean's brother!"

When Warren Stevens' third annual short course for coaches opens on July 19 at University of Toronto what is believed to be the first school for hockey teams will be inaugurated. Joe Primeau, high-scoring centre of Toronto Maple Leafs of the National League, will be in charge.

"I don't think there ever was a hockey coaching school in Canada or the United States," said Stevens. Varsity's head man in athletics and a specialist in football, he has been in Ontario high schools. Joe will use a blackboard on which to illustrate offensive and defensive plays.

"We had about fifty in our various classes last year, but no doubt the inclusion of hockey in the curriculum will increase the attendance," said Stevens who expects Primeau will call on several star major league players to lecture during the duration of the course.

Football has been the most popular course since the formation of the University of Syracuse and Montreal Wanderers. "Hockey is the new thing," said Stevens, "and I think it will be the future of the game."

Stevens has made almost a perfect record in Canadian football since he came to this country. He led the Wheelers to the Canadian title in 1931, the first season the forward pass was used in the game. He was named director of athletics at Toronto and his Blue squad won the Intercollegiate Inter championship two years in succession.

The first crack forward power to play the Canadian game, Stevens specializes in teaching the possibilities of the play. Most of the offensive coaches who have been in the game are vitally interested in learning all about the game.

Stevens also teaches basketball. There are also classes in the various games and the physical culture method called Danish gymnastic work. Students will come from all over Ontario, Montreal and Winnipeg.

Even horse racing has fallen for the new scientific era. A new track at Les Ancres will have a foolproof mechanical index which takes and develops a picture of the finish of a race in two minutes. The time system employs light rays and photo-electric cells at the various posts and

Slim Belcher and Bill Holness Are Stars In Victory

Former Drives in Four Runs, With as Many Hits, as Cafemen Win 6 to 2

Holness Allows Only Four Hits

Slim Belcher, six feet four first baseman, and Bill Holness, hard-working pitcher, put on a great two-man show at the Athletic Park yesterday evening as the Poodle Dog Cafe handed the Sons of Canada a 6 to 2 defeat in the Victoria Senior Baseball League. It was the first setback suffered by the Canadians this season and broke their string of victories at three. Belcher had a perfect night at the plate with two triples and a pair of singles in as many trips to the rubber, to drive in four of the cafemen's six runs. Holness twirled a steady game to hold the Sons to four scattered hits. The teams turned in a fast exhibition to get in nine innings.

Holness, who held the "Indian sign" on the Sons last year when he pitched for Cameron, took up just where he left off last season. He shut out the Sons for seven innings, weakened in the eighth to allow them two runs and then came back to blank them in the ninth. The Poodle Dog scored one run in the second, one in the third, and went on a scoring spree to get four in the sixth.

USE THREE PITCHERS
The Sons paraded three pitchers to the mound in a desperate effort to keep the scoring down. Jimmy Proudlove, who started, was yanked in the sixth in favor of Lloyd Cain. Cain lasted just two-thirds of an inning before he was yanked, with Tommy Musgrave taking up the burden. The latter finished the game. The Poodle Dog got five runs and eight hits off Proudlove, one run and no hits off Cain, and no run and one hit off Musgrave.

After a scoreless first inning the Poodle Dog opened the scoring in the last of the second. Dunc was safe when Bacon booted his ground ball over towards second base. Esler was hit on the side of the head by pitched ball just two-thirds of an inning before he was yanked, with Tommy Musgrave taking up the burden. The latter finished the game. The Poodle Dog got five runs and eight hits off Proudlove, one run and no hits off Cain, and no run and one hit off Musgrave.

SCORE FOUR RUNS
The sixth inning saw the balloon go up in the Sons' camp. Dunc started the rally with a liner over shortstop for a single and stole second when Barnes dropped a pitched ball. Esler walked. Nicholson reached first when his ground ball hit Umpire McGregor and the bases were loaded with nobody out. Belcher uncoiled his big bludgeon for another single to right field scoring Dunc and Esler. At this stage Proudlove was waved to the bench for Cain. Belcher was out trying to steal second, Barnes to Bacon. Holness struck out Benning, first man up, was safe when Holman and Fleming played Gaston and Alphonse with his fly behind shortstop and before the ball was returned to the infield, Benning was standing on third base. Cummings popped to Fleming in left. Bridgewood grounded to Bacon, Benning holding third and Nex struck out.

LADYSMITH IN SOFTBALL WIN

BOSTON RED SOX RETIRE PIPGRAS

Boston, June 12.—The Boston Red Sox yesterday placed George Pippas, veteran right-handed pitcher, on the voluntarily retired list for the rest of the season. He has entered a hospital to undergo his second operation on his pitching arm since last August.

Pippas, one of the first players purchased by Tom Yawkey and Eddie Collins in the rebuilding of the Red Sox, was hampered by a chipped elbow last season. He has not been able to start a game this season, and X-rays recently revealed a growth was cramping his elbow.

SOFTBALL

A heavy assault by Sidney batters on the offerings of Painter's Bruins' hurler in the eighth brought to an end the latter's string of victories in the C division of the Lower Island Softball Association at Sidney yesterday evening as the home team emerged with an 11 to 9 verdict.

Porky Andrews and Vic Thomas clouted out circuit drives to help the Bruins take a 9 to 8 lead going into the eighth, but they failed to weather the batting attack of their opponents.

North Saanich interrupted Spencers 17 to 4 in the same section, while Victoria West Social Club drubbed Macdonalds 17 to 2. Hudson's Bays hammered just a little harder than Canadian Western Coopers to gain a 22 to 13 verdict.

In the D division, Canucks consolidated their position in top berth with a 28 to 13 win over Native Sons and the City beat Duroids 14 to 13 in the closest game of the evening.

Mason Retains His British Ring Title

Birmingham, Eng. June 12.—Harry Mason, London, British welterweight champion, retained his title here yesterday evening in a fifteen-round bout with Len (Tiger) Smith, Birmingham, when Smith was disqualified for hitting low in the fourteenth round. Mason weighed 145½ pounds, and Smith 140½.

Sir Malcolm Says He Is Undecided

London, June 12.—Sir Malcolm Campbell, holder of the world automobile speed record, yesterday said he was undecided when he would go to the United States to make another attempt on his mark of 272.164 miles an hour.

"I have not made up my mind," Sir Malcolm said. "I shall be going to America eventually, but when, and whether, to Dayton, Beach or Utah, I do not know."

CARNERA-BAER LOOKED OVER

Principals in Thursday's Title Heavyweight Bout Undergo Another Examination

New York, June 12.—Principals in the maddest pre-fight developments in the annals of the ring, Primo Carnera and Max Baer, found the New York State Athletic Commission for another physical examination to-day.

Meanwhile the promoters were virtually hysterical as they sought to offset reports Baer was out of condition and that Carnera not only was in grave danger of going stale but also was actually ill.

Jimmy Johnston and his Madison Square Garden associates heaved a sigh of relief as Baer wound up training with another downhill exhibition at Asbury Park yesterday.

But mystery cloaked the champion's whereabouts, his condition, his health, and everything concerning him for a good part of the day. Finally it became known that he had spent the entire day in bed. His manager, Louis Ross, said Primo was suffering from a slight cold and sinus trouble. The champion, Ross explained, was a mere shadow at 257 pounds and a day in bed had been recommended to bring him up to his normal fighting poundage of around 260.

VACS DEFEAT HOME OILERS

Bunch Hits to Score 8 to 3 Victory in Vancouver Senior Ball League

Vancouver, June 12.—Bob Brown's Vacs bunched five of their ten hits in the first two innings for six runs and defeated Home Gas 8 to 3 in a senior city baseball game here yesterday evening.

Heimer, on the mound for Vacs, was also touched for ten safeties, but kept them well scattered.

Four hits, two of them doubles, sent three Vacs across the plate in the first inning, while the Gasmen were held to a lone run on Plummer's circuit wallop.

Another double in the fifth, combined with two errors and a long fly to centre field gave the Vacs three more tallies.

Esler scored once in the fifth with Vacs adding another in the sixth, and Home Gas one in the eighth.

DUTRA-HAGEN TO MAKE TOUR

Newly-crowned U.S. Open Golf Champion to Cash in on His Honors

New York, June 12.—Olin Dutra, the new United States open golf champion, who grabbed the brass ring at the "Merion merry-go-round," is not going to waste any time in turning it into gold.

"Doubting Dutra"—he calls himself that because he doubted if his physical condition, weakened by amoebic dysentery, could stand the seventy-two-hole grind, much less finish in front—announced yesterday he had teamed up with that colorful forty-one-year-old campaigner, Walter Hagen, for a barnstorming exhibition tour.

Olin won the Professional Golfers' Association championship in 1932, and totally muffed the money-making chances that go with such an honor.

"I missed the boat then," he said, "but I'm already on board, this time. They tell me the open championship is worth something like $25,000 this year. Well, I'm going to cash in now, and there's nothing wrong with my addition either. I can count to higher than that, if I have to."

He's passing up the British open, to be played two weeks hence, leaving Denny Shute, the defending champion, and Gene Sarazen, the outstanding United States contender,

Edmonton Basketball Stars Need Only One More Victory Over U.S. Five to Retain International Crown Won Yesterday Evening 35 to 28

Edmonton, June 12.—Percy Page's Commercial Grads were within a game of another international women's basketball championship to-day. The "silver fox" piloted the Edmonton team yesterday evening to a 35 to 28 victory over the Tulsa Oklahoma stenographers for the second straight win in the three-out-of-five series.

Grads took a 41-to-31 decision Saturday in the first game in a fence of their international title. The third game will be played to-morrow night.

An early eleven-point lead, which Grads managed to establish in opening quarter, won the game for the Edmonton champions. Starting slowly, were in early difficulties, with a smashing sensational tack launched by Grads. Time again, the champions' plays elicited from one end of the floor to the other, and although they were every so often, more than enough the shots counted. During this quarter, Grads checked their opponents to a standstill, despite blistering pace they set.

TULSA STARS

Francis Dunlap and Albert Williams, the former a midget in the and the latter a girl of over five eleven inches, were the stars of Tulsa team. They marshalled forces together for the final quarters, and with Dunlap paying way with lightning, accurate pen and Williams using the ring end, the visiting girls from the international border took command of the play, and Grads forced to fight at top speed to them at bay.

As in the first game, it was a lant exhibition of basketball. This occasion, however, Grads, got out in a better way, were able "coast" along, and were content let their opponents carry the to them. At half-time the was 22 to 13 in favor of Grads. In last half, Tulsa outscored the clowns, but only by one point in of the quarters.

Williams and Martha Hiel divided scoring honors for Tulsa, getting nine points, while Walker, seven, with Dunlap scoring 11. None of the Tulsa girls was a star in the first quarter, although Dunlap had three personals, as Hickman.

Noel Macdonald, the "baby" who only came up to the senior level this year from the Gradenettes, high scorer for the champions, twine twelve points. Margaret Burney scored 10, and the Tulsa girls were banished in the fourth quarter four personals,

Levinsky was expected to have a weight advantage of approximately ten pounds, with Lasky down to 185 and the Kingfish around 205.

Windsor Lad's Triumph in English Derby

A race that brought fortunes to fifty-two persons throughout the world who held tickets on the first three horses is pictured at its dramatic conclusion in this striking radiophone from London as Windsor Lad nosed out Easton to win the famed English Derby at Epsom Downs. Colombo, the previously unbeaten "wonder horse," is seen coming up in third place. Among the crowd of half million who witnessed the colorful classic were King George and Queen Mary.

Yearling Pitchers Do Well In Majors

Johnny Murphy, New York Yankees, Is Outstanding Flinger to Make Grade This Season; Cascarella, Newsom, Benton and Paul Dean Other Stars

The first year's the toughest, especially for major league pitchers, but a surprisingly large number of yearlings appear to have made the grade this season. Most conspicuously in the line-up recently has been Johnny Murphy, erstwhile Fordham athlete, to whose brilliant work in a crisis New York Yankees owe one large vote of thanks.

Johnny took over a startling assignment with the Yankees staff, save only Vernon Gomez, collapsed. Since then he has won four games and lost only one. Gomez, in the same span, has won three and lost one and together they have kept the Yankees in the race.

Joe Cascarella won four in a row for the Philadelphia Athletics to become the early season sensation, but the former Jersey City twirler now has taken four beatings in succession and Connie Mack's best bet right now appears to be young Alton Benton, a right-hander from Oklahoma City. Benton has won his last three starts.

OTHER NEWCOMERS STAR
Bud Newsom has been a workhorse for Rogers Hornsby's St. Louis Browns. The talkative right-hander has pitched in thirteen games and allowed eighty-five hits in eighty-five innings and won five victories against four defeats. Fritz Ostermueler, young southpaw, has rounded into form for Boston Red Sox and Eldon Auker's relief pitching has helped Mickey Cochrane's Detroit Tigers, now leading the American League.

In the National League, Paul Dean, younger and less dippy half of the Dean brothers, has chalked up six consecutive victories and Curt Davis has developed into a valuable member of Jimmy Wilson's Philadelphia ensemble. Davis has won five games and lost four with a seventh-place club.

Yesterday's major league open date was a prelude to a new east-west series, starting to-day. The eastern clubs of the National League open their second year of the west, while the western clubs of the American League are invading the Atlantic seaboard.

INTERNATIONAL LEAGUE
Since taking command of the International League pennant race five days ago, Newark Bears have looked more like the team that swept through the regular season last year, only to lose in the playoffs.

A starting eighth Jack Lavocaca's side hit pitching performance which showed the Bears into first place last Friday. Bob Shawkey's men have won four of their last five games. Vito Tamulis in the second game of Sunday's doubleheader with Montreal held the Royals to two hits.

Yesterday the combined hurling of Charlie Devens and Marvin Duke, plus a late-inning rally, gave the Bears a 6 to 3 decision over Montreal. Johnny Pomorski held the league leaders to a pair of runs until the seventh, but then they unleashed their guns and drove in three runs.

Devens, who was touched for all of Montreal's runs, was credited with his fourth victory of the season, although removed for a pinch-hitter in the seventh inning.

TORONTO WINS
Failure to connect in the pinches cost the Syracuse Chiefs their second straight game at the hands of Toronto Maple Leafs. The score was 6 to 5.

The Chiefs connected with eight hits and received ten free trips to the plate from Walter Ripper, Jimmy Pattison and Charley Lucas, but four double plays by the Toronto infield stopped any budding rallies.

Second place Rochester suffered a severe jolt as the Red Wings dropped both ends of a twilight-night doubleheader to Albany Senators. Albany won the seven-inning first game, 3 to 2, by scoring two runs in the sixth and one in the seventh, and then went on to capture the night contest, 11 to 7, scoring seven runs in the fifth.

Buffalo's Blonsa, dropped back to sixth position when they took a 10 to 3 licking from Baltimore.

SOFTBALL BY-LAWS

To the Sports Editor.—I noted in the issue of "Softball News" in The Times of June 11, 1934, a new by-law of the B.C. Softball Association. I wish to challenge the B.C. Association's right to make such new by-law as unconstitutional according to the amended by-laws of the annual meeting of March 25, 1934.

I would refer the B.C. Softball executive to Article 6 of the by-laws as follows: "No amendment or alteration shall be made to any part of this constitution or by-laws except at this annual meeting and only by a two-thirds vote of the members present."

Further, Article 7, clause (a): "The annual meeting of the association shall be held during the last two weeks of March."

Therefore, the by-law as passed at the meeting of the executive on June 6, 1934, is null and void, being unconstitutional by authority of Articles 7 and 8 of the by-laws.

It is possible the B.C. executive have taken Article 6, clause (B) for their authority, which reads as follows: "The executive shall have control of the affairs of the association and shall have power to amend or alter the regulations of the championship competitions."

This section does not give them the authority to alter the constitution or by-laws, in other words, they have no authority to make by-laws.

Facing the Gun

MIDDLE DISTANCE RUNNING

In the old days, the middle distance star was the man who could jog along with the field and then leave it flat-footed with a terrific sprint at the finish. But those days have vanished before the systematic attacks of pace runners who know just how much they can do over their specialized distances.

An athlete training for middle distance does well to divide his preparatory periods in two, participating in cross country runs and similar events in the fall and getting down to pace work and speed in the spring period. The main idea in training should be the building up of heart and lungs for the grueling races of the summer months.

A boy training for a half-mile does well to limit his workouts to 110-yard stretches when learning pace, have faster on the body to run half a dozen 110-yard stretches than three two-twenty's.

The runner should practice from running and standing starts for all the time he should gauge his pace in order to be able to run his stretches in any specified time up to the ability of his speed.

The idea behind pace running is to avoid being exhausted before a race is finished, or the equally bad mistake of holding out reserve strength and having it on tap when he hits the tape.

It is customary for a middle distance runner to divide his race into quarters. On the first quarter he should get away fast, running the distance at nearly top speed. In the second quarter he should ease up a little as the initial sprint should have secured for the runner a good position in the race. The third quarter is the floating or gathering stage and consequently the slowest in the race. In the final quarter the athlete naturally gives all he has left, which, if the race has been properly timed, should make it the second fastest of the stretch.

In all training the performer should start off easily, gradually increasing his speed. Running over-distances is regarded to-day as a fallacy. And the runner should not hit his peak until he is in major competition. The actual breaking down process in body structure through a race is so great that it should be avoided until it is absolutely necessary.

One distance running tends to make the athlete relaxed through this reaction. It is not necessary in middle distance running to carry the body with such a pronounced forward lean as that required in sprinting. Neither is it necessary to drive as hard with the legs. Relaxation is needed in middle distances.

To secure this a higher kick-up on the leg recovery is used and the stride is varied. In view of the fact power is less important over the longer routes, the knee lift need not be as high.

Winnipeg Pit Has Colorless Session

Winnipeg, June 12.—Wheat prices sauntered through a colorless session today on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange and futures finished unchanged.

Lightness of offerings featured dealings, while an uncertain weather map, which indicated scattered showers and higher temperatures, supplied a mixed influence.

July delivery closed at 78½, October at 80½, and December at 81½.

Strength at Chicago helped to hold local prices steady. Some buying developed, chiefly from houses with Southern connections, though export business was virtually at a standstill.

Liverpool wheat ended 1½ lower per 100 pounds. Chicago was up about one cent.

Stocks Move Upward In Brisker Trading

New York, June 12.—Stocks moved into higher territory today, and the trading volume, while still under normal, was considerably larger than that of the preceding session. There was some profit-taking in the last half hour, but gains of 1 to about 2 points predominated.

The close was firm. Transfers approximated 950,000 shares.

Stocks performed to the satisfaction of recovery proposals of American brokerage houses still remained the slackness of business. Some nervousness continued in evidence as the steel labor controversy appeared to be without any immediate solution.

Grains resumed their advance after early hesitancy. Corn led with a gain of more than 20 cents a bushel.

But wheat, rye and oats were up around a cent. Cotton and rubber did better, and silver was about steady.

Bonds were quiet. The United States dollar advanced against leading foreign exchanges. Renewed weakness was shown by the German mark.

Shares that rallied around 1 to 2 points included those of American Telephone, U.S. Smelting, U.S. Steel, John-Manville, National Steel, American Sugar Refining, Chrysler, American Lumber, Westinghouse, American Can, Montgomery Ward, Eastman Kodak, Du Pont, Santa Fe, Pennsylvania, N.Y. Central, Southern Pacific, Schenley, U.S. Industrial Alcohol, American Commercial Alcohol, Peco and American Smelting. National Lead, although inactive, jumped 6½ points, and Spiegel-Mann-Stern got up 4 points.

Automobile came back fractionally after its yesterday's setback. The utilities and oils were somewhat higher.

Stocks of Canadian companies registered nominal changes. McIntyre and Canadian Pacific were about even, while Dome and International Nickel advanced a shade each. Dominion Government sold off a trifle.

NEW MOVE TO STEEL STRIKE

Pittsburgh, June 12.—Threats of a steel strike in the United States had solidified today into a concrete movement for a walkout of the union contingent of 250,000 raw metal workers.

Demanding recognition, officials of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Tin and Steel Workers completed plans for a meeting Thursday, at which a formal strike call is expected to be issued unless the industry capitulates.

The industrialists were represented as opposed to union recognition, but agreed to a government proposal for a three-man arbitration board.

The proposal, however, was rejected by union leaders. President Roosevelt was said to have taken under discussion other possible methods of adjudication.

NEOGR KILLED
Green Patton, negro, employed in the Public Steel Corporation's Allegheny iron fields, where a strike is in progress, was clubbed to death. A half dozen persons were injured in disorders punctuated by bombings, shootings and fist fights.

GOODRICH
Goodrich, 31, was killed in a car accident. The car was driven by a woman.

Peace Is Theme at Kiwanis Convention

The next war, Mr. Massey believed, would be fought in the air, and from that it would derive its major horrors.

"Now it would seem obvious," he said, "that if the League is to live it can only survive if it has the support of the people. It is the duty of the League to do the things its members are more likely to be respected and supported by other states if it shows the world it means business."

POSITION OF PROVINCES

The Dominion is a creature of the provinces, not the provinces of the Dominion," declared the Premier in a speech at the Dominion Convention in Ottawa.

He had enjoyed a good argument with the Prime Minister, however, and after the conference Mr. Bennett suggested the province submit the matters to a committee of the cabinet.

Later he had received a letter from Premier Bennett stating the committee of the cabinet would probably be composed of the whole cabinet, and that after prorogation he would set a date for the hearing.

ALREADY RECOGNIZED

This was not inflation. The Dominion had already recognized the principle. Canada had not anything like the amount of currency in circulation in proportion to that in the United States.

The "work and wages" election slogan of the Liberal Party in British Columbia had throughout been predicated on the use of the national credit, and the Dominion, having a control of credit and currency, was the source to which its government had turned.

Reviewing works that had been carried out elsewhere through use of the national credit, he cited Premier Mussolini's reclamation and restoration projects in Italy.

If it required regimentation of that kind to carry out needed works and keep people at work, democracy had no objection to it.

SPECIAL POWERS ACT
Referring to charges that he had gone against the principles of Liberalism in bringing down the Special Powers Act, the Premier remarked that sometimes "you have to risk your life to save it."

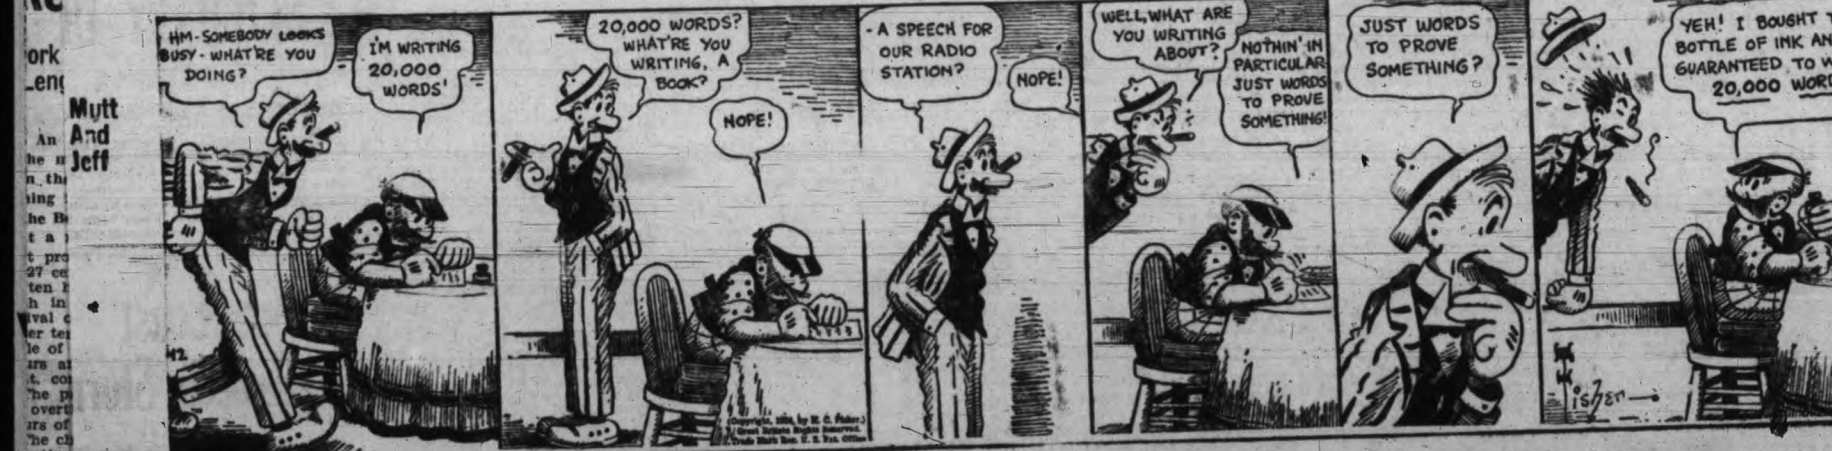

He thought all Canadians should hope the United States would ultimately arrive at a successful pro-

Dorothy Dix's Letter Box

DEAR MISS DIX—My husband will not co-operate with me in the training of our children. Time and again when I tried to correct them he has taken the children's part in their presence and reassured me. I have talked to him about this and tried to make him see that I can have no authority over the youngsters unless he backs me up, but it does no good. What shall I do? MRS. X. Y. Z.

Answer—It is the lack of teamwork between parents that is responsible for most of the out-breaking law-and-God-defying boys and girls who are keeping their fathers and mothers awake at night wondering where Johnny and Mary are, and how it happened that their children have turned out to be a sorrow instead of a joy and pride to them.

Sometimes it is a weak and over-fond mother who lets her children run roughshod over her, who permits them to be impudent to her and defy her, and who cannot bear even to deny them the things that she knows will hurt them. She weeps bitter tears over their lack of affection and respect for her, but when their father attempts to make them behave and to control them she flies at him like a tiger in defence of her young. She will hide their misdeeds from him and even lie to cover them up. She will pinch the housekeeping money, to buy them the things their father refuses them. She will get them things that she knows they can't afford and that their father has told them that he hasn't the money to pay for.

Many a desperate father comes to me with the story of how his wife is not only ruining his children but is building up in their minds a resentment against him as an enemy who is always doing them a wrong, depriving them of pleasure and keeping them from doing what they want to do. Also, their mother is teaching them that their father is stingy and hard and lacking in affection for them so that the children have neither love nor respect for him. The mother balks the father's every attempt to bring up the children properly and he is helpless to prevent it.

Sometimes it is the father who spoils the children. He may do this for several reasons. Either because he is one of the men who are all father and no husband and whose whole affection is centred on the children. Or because he is weak and hasn't the strength to fight with self-willed youngsters. Or because he wants peace and quiet at home and he thinks he can buy it by indulging the children in anything they want. Or because he doesn't realize the importance of forming children's morals and manners while they are young.

But whatever the reason, he never holds up his wife's hands when she tries to make the children behave. He pooh-poohs her efforts at discipline. He takes their part against her. He encourages them to break all of her rules and regulations and laughs at them when they talk back at her.

The result is that he discredits their mother in the children's eyes. He teaches them to think she is a fool and to despise her judgment. He makes them think her of so little importance that she does not even have to be considered, or treated with the politeness they would show a servant.

"A house divided against itself shall fall," says the Bible, and this great truth was never more forcibly illustrated than it is in the case of the families where the mother and father have pulled against each other and each nullified the other's effort to bring up the children properly. For it did not take the smart youngsters long to find out that they could play mother against father and so escape all discipline and do as they pleased.

It is a strange thing that intelligent men and women are so blinded by parental love that they cannot see this and realize what they are doing when they destroy their children's respect for each other. For the time comes when the girls need a mother's wisdom to guide them, but they will not heed her if their father has taught them to think her a moron who belongs to a moss-grown generation. And the day comes when the boys need a father's authority over them, but he has no influence with them if their mother has taught them to defy him and has killed their respect for him.

Rearing children is a two-handed job and it takes the combined efforts of both mother and father working together, doing the most perfect teamwork, to turn out the kind of youngsters who are a credit to their parents. DOROTHY DIX.

DEAR MISS DIX—I am a girl of twenty-two, very much in love with a man nine years my senior, and we are thinking of marrying. Last night he asked me this question: "If we were married and I gave you love and happiness, a good home and a comfortable living, what would you do to keep my love?" I replied: "I would be a good mother and a loving wife, isn't that enough?" He did not answer, but told me to go to you for advice. Will you please tell me if there is anything more I could do to keep his love. R. B.

Answer—It seems to me that you are offering the man a fair exchange for what he offers you, and that when he asks you what you would do to keep his love you are entitled to inquire what he has to give in return for your love. But you must take it for granted that their wives will go on loving them, while they at least suspect themselves of changing in their affections.

I presume that what your fiancé wants me to tell you is that just being a good, faithful and loving wife isn't enough to keep a man in love with you. These are basic virtues, but they are not the charms with which women conjure men. There are thousands of modest wives who lose their husbands because they have lost their figures, or lost their pep, or because they have just ceased to be interesting companions.

Of course, this is very sad. It is very unfair and unjust, but it is very true that in these days the woman who keeps a man in love with her has to carry a double line of attractions. She has to be a domestic and a young manager, a good wife and mother, and at the same time she has to keep herself easy on the eyes, an entertaining companion and a playgirl. She has to perform on the gas range with one hand and on the piano with the other, so to speak.

Women used to look forward to marriage as an estate in which they could slump, but now they have to be up and doing as they never were before in their own lives. The most strenuous occupations on earth. Unless a girl has plenty of backbone and wishbone as well as heart she should not undertake it.

I think it is these few facts that your fiancé wished me to call your attention to, and I think he shows he is a just man in giving you a fair warning that he expects you to continue being a Lady Love as well as a wife. DOROTHY DIX.

DEAR MISS DIX—I am very much in love with a girl and we wish to get married, but I have two sisters who make their home with me and whom I support. They are older than I, but they have no position and depend on me. My sweetheart refuses to marry me and have my sisters live with me, as they have always run the house and would expect to continue to do so, but I hate to tell them that they will have to look after their own home and support after this. What shall I do? PERPLEXED MAN.

There is no reason for you to sacrifice your life to your sisters. Help them get jobs and tell them they will have to stand on their own feet after this. Your duty is to the girl who is in love with you, and to yourself. DOROTHY DIX.

Poplar Bluff, O., June 12 (Associated Press)—Farmer R. E. Rice's pigs went to market in St. Louis, 670 pounds of them. With the cheque he received a few days later, he bought a pound of bacon, costing 19 cents. The rest went for yardage, insurance, commission and drayage.
